THE HANDBOOK OF TEXAS Online

return to handbook view

SPRADLEY, ANDREW JACKSON (1853-1940). Andrew Jackson (John) Spradley, lawman and political figure, son of Patrick Henry and Dicey (Williamson) Spradley, was born near Westville, Mississippi, on March 8, 1853. His father was an illiterate, although moderately prosperous, yeoman farmer. In the 1870s young Spradley killed two sons of a local planter in a gunfight, apparently in self-defense. His family immediately sent him to live with relatives near Nacogdoches, Texas, to prevent retaliation, then followed him to Texas the next year. Spradley married Victoria Johnson on May 2, 1878. They had two children before being divorced in 1891. In 1881 the sheriff of Nacogdoches County, Richard D. Orton,<sup>qv</sup> appointed Spradley as a deputy. Spradley had gained a reputation for standing up to ruffians and became sheriff the next year. In 1883 he joined the Masonic order. The next year he was baptized into the Catholic Church<sup>qv</sup> while he was unconscious; a drunk had shot him in the chest, and he was not expected to live. He did survive, however, and by the 1890s became more respected for the use of his wits than his gun or fists. His use of bloodhounds, which he raised and trained to track criminals, and his shrewd detective work soon became legendary. During Spradley's long career as a law officer he participated in a number of famous cases. He tracked outlaw Bill Mitchell throughout South Texas and New Mexico after Mitchell murdered James M. Truitt in Timpson. Spradley participated in an expedition against the remnant of the Dalton gang after they held up the First National Bank of Longview in 1894. He arrested outlaw Tex Wallace after he robbed the Cotton Belt Bank of Timpson.

Spradley became an early leader of the Populist movement in Nacogdoches and was instrumental in bringing blacks, whom he treated fairly, into the party. He publicly shook hands with blacks while campaigning and in 1894 called a number of prominent blacks for jury duty, an action that caused a statewide sensation. He also briefly edited the local Populist newspaper, the Plaindealer, when it was founded in 1893. Spradley's brother, Matt, beat him for reelection in 1894, when voters became confused over which Spradley was which (the Populists carried the county). John Spradley married Hattie Grey on election day, November 6, 1894, and retired to his livestock business until 1896, when voters returned him to the sheriff's office. He lost again in 1898 but secured reelection in 1900 and 1902. During the latter two terms the Populist sheriff went to extraordinary lengths to prevent a lynching and vigorously defended blacks against "whitecapping," a form of organized harassment of blacks by whites. He briefly returned to the Democratic party<sup>qv</sup> in 1904, but withdrew from the primaries when it became obvious that Democrats would establish a white primary.<sup>qv</sup> He hoped that withdrawing from the sheriff's race might remove the motive behind the exclusion of blacks. When Democrats adopted the discriminatory legislation anyway, Spradley again ran for sheriff on the Populist ticket, but lost. Black voting declined significantly with the adoption of the poll tax (see ELECTION LAWS) in November 1902. Spradley won only two later races for sheriff of Nacogdoches, in 1908 and in 1914.

He became a United States marshal in 1906 and permanently returned to the Democratic held for more than a quarter of a century on state lands behind the old capitol in Jackson, was given in another of a measure intended to renew city's lease to the lands for 10 years.

Fair Bill Killed.

This is the second time the governor vetoed a similar bill. "I trust the people of Jackson will understand and appreciate my desire to help them in every way possible," says the governor in vetoing the bill which would limit the continuation of the state not only the state fair buildings, but the municipal football stadium, track and baseball park are located on the lands, most of which are subject to overflow every spring and are almost useless for other purposes, unless a levee system was erected to keep the Pearl river during the floods.

Each of the natural gas and oil developments recently have been made on lands adjacent to these state lands, the contemplated lease reserved gas and oil rights to the state.

Approval of the appropriation bills for the five charity hospitals was because of the rider restricting the field which Governor Bilbo could select intendents to head the institutions.

It was admittedly aimed to prevent his appointment of Dr. Willis Waller in Jackson, his campaign treasurer.

Blocks Three-Fifths Vote.

Governor Bilbo vetoed the Senate bill requiring a three-fifths majority of voters to authorize a bond issue in any of the political subdivisions of the state. The law now requires a majority vote.

There is much that could be said on this subject, but personally I still think that when a majority of the people of any county, district or municipality want a thing, they should have it," the governor.

Limiting the use of the name "pharmacy" to the designation of drug stores or to such establishments in which a registered pharmacist is employed, included in a House bill, was also vetoed by the governor.

It is entirely proper and in many ways true that the merchants can carry anything that is usually found in a drug store, except such drugs as are dispensed upon a physician's prescription," says the governor, also it is that sometimes a drug store carries nothing except such drugs as are dispensed by a registered pharmacist, the state has no right to tell a man of one kind or class of goods he should have on his shelves just so long as he has the government's demand for a license and any other tax the government sees fit to impose," says the governor. The bill says nothing about for work on roads, railroads and manufacturing plants, running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, and has proven himself capable of directing large enterprises and of accomplishing results in work of large proportions. His many friends feel that such a man is needed in the office of Highway Commissioner, and that Mr. Frahm will give satisfactory and efficient service in this capacity. His honesty and integrity have never been questioned, and he promises, if elected, a careful guarding of all expenditures, and a perfect system of records, to the end that the public may know that the state is receiving full value for every dollar spent.

C. OF C. SECRETARY

TAKING NOTES IN BILOXI

Tom Dantzler, newly elected secretary of the Pascagoula Chamber of Commerce, is in Biloxi visiting with Anthony V. Ragusin of the Chamber of Commerce to acquaint himself with the workings of a modern and large chamber of commerce. The Biloxi Chamber of Commerce assisted in organizing the Pascagoula commerce body and has taken considerable interest in its development and activities. Mr. Dantzler has chosen a most opportune time for his visit because of the large amount of business being transacted at the hotel office, especially in the industrial and publicity departments. The new Pascagoula secretary is well known in Biloxi having attended school there and was a half back in the 1922 Biloxi High School football team which won the first Gulf Coast championship for the school. —Biloxi Herald, May 20.

CLOSING MEETING OF ##### BEACH SCHOOL P. T. A.

Newspapers.

In the "Believe it or Not" cartoon the Jackson Clarion-Ledger of last Saturday there is an alleged picture of the Pascagoula river, at about the Common tract section, showing a few houses and some high trees behind them, and this wording along side the picture: "The Singing River of Pascagoula, Mississippi. At nightfall Mysterious Music is heard coming from the 'Like the Breathing of an Aeolian Harp'—Unexplainable."

On the following day the same paper carried the explanation of the Singing River, as follows:

"The Singing River of Pascagoula, Mississippi—The phenomenon of the Singing River of Pascagoula has come under the observation of thousands but no adequate explanation of it has been made. Popular legend and folklore have assigned many poetical reasons for this delightful natural curiosity. Like in the case of the Voynich Statue of Memnon, or the Barki Sands of Hawaii, the cause is probably a combination of natural and atmospheric conditions."

Since the above was put in the copies of the cartoon depicting the "Singing River" have been received by the Chronicle-Star and by citizens of Pascagoula from several different sections of the country. The cartoon and comment were printed simultaneously in many papers throughout the United States. Inquiries about the mysterious music have come in thick and fast showing that the article in question has given Pascagoula much advertisement. The explanation given by the Clarion-Ledger and other papers are about as good as any that could be given.

The Chronicle-Star would like to have any literature on the subject that any citizen has, and will appreciate a loan of same, although legends pertaining to the mysterious music have been published from time to time in this and other papers.

Kreole Serviceman Asks Return Of 5 Pups Intended For After-War Hunting

The kind of hunting F. W. H. L. Benefield of Kreole and now of the U. S. Navy, has been doing lately hasn't had anything to do with deer and fox hunting in the woods of Jackson County but where his dogs are there is his heart.

Benny, as he is known, has plenty of time to conjure up pictures of past and future hunts now for he is a patient in the U. S. Naval hospital in Norfolk, Va., where he was sent after duty on a minesweeper to be treated for

W. Fuller this week.

Marjorie Thomas spent Friday with her aunt, Mrs. E. B. Townsend, at Circle T.

The Women's Home Demonstration club held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. Carroll Clifford Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Mabry and daughter, Betty, visited Mr. and Mrs. Francis Clifford Sunday afternoon.

Maybe that's one reason the loss of five skinny little pups slated to fill the footsteps of their hunting parents, two lean and spotted hounds who answer to the names of Rock and Minnie Pearl, seems a particular tragedy to him. When a man's up and moving around and busy things don't put him as hard.

So after hearing of the disappearance of the three-month-old puppies, he has appealed through the Chronicle Star and Advertiser for the return of his dogs.

"Many of you who hunt fox or deer know me and my hounds," he writes from the hospital. "You know, too, how much a good dog means to a hunter. When I left home early in 1944 to enter the U. S. Navy I requested my wife to raise a litter of pups from my old walkers which probably won't live till I return or will be too old to hunt."

When he saw the puppies on a recent visit home he was delighted and began making plans for hunts he and his friend, Ray Veldt McCormick, who is in the South Pacific, will have when the war is over.

"Now I'm told five of the pups were stolen and turned loose near the housing project in Pascagoula," Mr. Benefield continued. "If anyone knows any information which will lead to the recovery of these pups, it will be greatly appreciated by two of Jackson county's servicemen if you will notify Mrs. H. L. Benefield at Kreole or phone 2791 in Moss Point. Please help us to enjoy our favorite sport when the war is over and we are home again."

At the Benefield home, Mrs. Benefield shakes her head worriedly over the disappearance of the puppies and the two grown dogs howl mournfully but mutely under the house where they are tied lest they too disappear.

"If my husband had been here those dogs wouldn't have disappeared," she said. "I sure wish we could get them back. Rock

Mrs. Housewife has to use a lot of "horse sense" in buying groceries today. In spite of a high national income, she must sometimes make her grocery budget stretch out over a considerable period of time. And yet, she does not want to do without the better foods. This means that she must select a place to shop where quality products are available at reasonable prices. Jitney Jungle's merchandising policies are designed to try to help the shopper in this respect.

Greenwood cemetery at the beach.

Mrs. Spratley before her marriage

Mr. Spratley died seven years ago. She ances.

NEWS-AND NOTES FROM ORDER EASTERN STAR

One of the enjoyable events in Eastern Star circles was the visit of several members of Pascagoula Chapter 151 to the Birdie Winston Chapter 391, Mobile, Ala. There were several grand officers present, including the Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Birdie Winston, of Opp, Ala., for whom this chapter was named. Also the Grand Marshall, Grand Sentinel, Grand Warder, and several Grand Representatives from other jurisdictions.

graded dirt construction, and while the litter are subject to weather conditions, they are usually maintained in good condition.

The agricultural activities consist of truck and pecan growing with a lesser amount of dairying and poultry raising.
Efforts to expand trucking and poultry raising are meeting with success.

At present the chief sources of revenue are industrial work and the catching, packing and marketing of sea foods.
The county is being slowly developed as a summer and winter resort and as its natural advantages are unsurpassed in this section, it is reasonable to expect a steady increase in population, both transient and permanent.

Full time county health work was started in January, 1925, and at that time five public health problems or needs were outstanding and served as a basis on which to formulate a program of activities. These were as follows:

- Education of public concerning health conservation.
- Communicable disease control.
- Sanitation in all its phases.
- Child welfare work.
- Hookworm eradication.

These problems, though mitigated to some extent, presented themselves as major considerations at the beginning of the period covered by this report.

They will be taken up in the order named without regard for their relative importance.

The following table shows the type and amount of educational work done: Lectures, 193; attendance at same, 12,163; bulletins distributed, 4,728; newspaper articles, 60; letters and notices, 6,514; conferences attended, 77; exhibits at fair, 2.

In addition to above there have been hundreds of telephone and personal consultations about public health matters of which no record is kept.

The control of communicable diseases has always been the chief responsibility of official health agencies, but far better results have been obtained since all the activities of a full time health department have been brought to bear on this problem. The subjoined table shows the work done that is usually included under this head:

Visit to cases or suspected cases, 112; cases isolated, 51; contacts quarantined, 115; home visits to cases of tuberculosis, 9; diphtheria immunity tests (Shick tests), 518; scarlet fever immunity tests (Dick test), 50; cows tested for tuberculosis, 376; cows found positive and destroyed, 5; number doses given for diphtheria immunization, 4,031; typhoid inoculation given (doses), 6,239; smallpox vaccinations, 984.

Laboratory tests being of great value in the control of contagious disease, a report of the work done along that line is appended at this time:

Widal test for typhoid, 4; blood tests for syphilis, 8; blood tests for malaria, 4; swabs examined for diphtheria, 29; specimens examined for gonococci, 10; specimens examined for tuberculosis, 2; examination of feces for hookworm ova, 1,776; feces culture for typhoid, 11; water samples for contamination, 82; miscellaneous examinations, 24; total, 1,974.

The question of sanitation is of paramount importance and presents peculiar difficulties in the coastal region so far as the disposal of human waste is concerned. In this county following the war, a government training school was maintained and those families not having water closets were compelled to construct pit privies of a type then in vogue. Unfortunately this type had several defects which rendered them apt to become insanitary following a few months use. It has taken considerable time and effort to convince householders that it is necessary and considered following conclusion of Article One. Nine of the new charges are based on inheritance tax fee collection and one on an income tax commission and all charge high crimes, misdemeanors and malfeasance.

The attorney-general won the first round of the battle today in an attempt to delay all action until the entire evidence collected by the investigating committee had been read. The attempt failed, but its opponents barely lacked the two-thirds majority necessary to impeach. The count was 89 to 45.

The fight to refer the entire case to the courts for decision of its legal phases was opened late this afternoon by Representative Coleman, Carroll county, who alone signed a minority report from the investigating committee exonerating Attorney-General Knox. A vote on it is not expected before action on the first article of impeachment.

Representative Coleman said tonight that in the event the first article failed for want of a two-thirds majority, he would immediately press his motion that the whole matter be referred to the courts. Only a majority vote would be needed to do this, and if obtained would halt the whole proceedings.

Galleries on three sides of the House were crowded, with spectators as the hearing, the result of a seven-month inquiry by the House investigating committee, formally got under way. Frequent applause broke from the listeners following addresses on either side. The gray-haired accused official, who has been frequently mentioned as a candidate for governor in 1931 and whose whole career may hinge on the outcome against him, sat in the House this afternoon and was an interested listener in the galleries this morning. His face was inscrutable as he heard the arguments on either side.

The first move for the defense came from Representative Hendrick, Hinds county, immediately on opening the hearing in a motion that further consideration be postponed until the committee had filed all articles of impeachment and submitted the evidence. Hendrick furthered his motion by referring to the committee's brief declaring that Article One "is enough for impeachment, but when taken with the other acts the evidence is overwhelming."

Motion Tabled, 89 to 45.

Its adoption would have entailed a delay of perhaps three weeks, Hendrick said, during which he proposed a recess without pay with the consent of the Senate. The motion was tabled on motion of Representative Bounds, Lauderdale county, 89 to 45, lacking a third of a vote of being two-thirds majority.

A vote on the first article was then delayed until "not before" 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on motion of Representative George, Leflore county, which was agreed to by Representative McGehee, investigating committee chairman. The motion was seconded by Representative Sillers, Bolivar county, who declared he had not completed a study of the evidence and if called on to vote today would vote against impeachment.

A strong arraignment of the attorney-general was made before the House this afternoon by Chairman McGehee, who reviewed the evidence in the Dunn case, the first article of impeachment. He declared that he disliked the attitude of a prosecutor after having sat as a jurymen during the investigation, but would follow the wishes of the House to explain why eight of the nine investigators had recommended impeachment.

Point was second with nineteen and Orange Grove had six. Ocean Springs, South Pascagoula, Escatawpa, Bluff Creek and other smaller precincts increased the number of voters in the county by from one to five each. Most of the women registered when they went to the courthouse to pay county and state taxes, which included their poll tax.

The time for paying poll tax ended February 1, and any person who failed to pay this tax is disqualified from voting during 1922 whether they had registered or not. Those who did pay the poll tax but have not registered have until July 7 to register and qualify for voting in the August primaries and the general election in November.

During the spring W. C. Havens, county registrar, will visit the different election precincts of the county to give all those who have not done so an opportunity to register.
Dates of his visits and the places he will have the books in the different precincts will be given through the press.

TAX MONEY FLOWS INTO CITY AND COUNTY TILLS.

Tax Collectors' Offices Busy Places When Payees Hasten to Settle Up.

The tax collectors' offices were the two busiest places in the city the early part of the week when taxpayers were crowding to settle with the collectors for 1921 taxes before the expiration of the period before damages are assessed.

Most people wait until the latter part of January to pay taxes, and this year was no exception. In the courthouse, where Sheriff Cudabac and three assistants were collecting, lines of taxpayers were waiting all day Tuesday and Wednesday to pay their taxes. Poll tax collections were especially heavy this year, caused by the fact that women are liable for the tax, and because 1922 is an election year, and voters did not risk being disqualified by neglecting to pay their poll tax.

City Tax Collector, M. L. Valverde has had about all he could do for the last two weeks. Some taxpayers delayed settling until the chancellor rendered a decision on the suit asking for an injunction on collection city taxes.

Neither Mr. Cudabac or Mr. Val-verde has received any official notice not to assess damages, which were set aside by a bill passed by the legislature Wednesday, extending the time of delinquency to April 1.

house. Cities having a community

The building situated in Magnolia street in the rear of the Stemper property has been purchased by the Red Cross chapter, and will be repaired and renovated as needed to fit it for its new uses. The building will be known as a "Community Home" in which the women of the city can serve the needs of the community in many ways.

The Red Cross used their building fund of $900 toward the purchase.
There is still owing $600 on the purchase price, and about $400 will be required to put the building in repair.
Of these amounts about $600 has already been pledged.

A meeting of all interested is called for Thursday, February 9, at the Community House. Officers and trustees will then be elected and detailed plans perfected for the work.

"EMMA T. MARTIN No. 1." SPUDED IN TUESDAY.

The Great American Oil Company commenced actual drilling operations Tuesday afternoon at their location near Kreole station, the first "spudding in" taking place at 3:15 o'clock.
A party of interested persons and officers of the company were present to witness the start-off of the well, which will be known as the "Emma T. Martin No. 1" in honor of the secretary-treasurer of the company.

Seventy feet were made the first day, but the drill was stopped Thursday on contact with sand which had to be mudded off. Operations were resumed Friday and have continued uninterrupted. Ten-inch surface casing arrived Wednesday and this will probably be set early next week.

MR. Wm. W. SPRATLEY, SR.

had been brought from the infirmary, when surgeons could do no more for his relief. Mr. Spratley was 71 years of age, and is survived by a large number of relatives.

Cemeteries of Jackson County, Mississippi

Greenwood Cemetery

The Greenwood Cemetery, also known as the Pascagoula Cemetery, Catholic Cemetery, Lutheran Cemetery, Sailor Cemetery, Beach Cemetery, Protestant Cemetery, and City Cemetery is located on Buena Vista Street in Pascagoula, Section 8, Township 7, Range 6. These were all joined about the turn of the century into one city cemetery called Greenwood. This cemetery contains numerous unmarked graves. The first recorded burial was October 10, 1848.

The original tombstone inscriptions were compiled by Mrs. Lester Scheffler, Mrs. Maidia Wright and Mrs. J. E. Krebs, on October 3, 1968, and were published in Requiem: Vol. I. A new survey of the old section of Greenwood was complete in 1993 by Julian Davis. Betty Rodgers and Katie Steen surveyed the two additions, May 11, 1992. The entire cemetery was re-surveyed in November of 1996 by Katie Steen and Harry H. McDonald, Sr. after hundreds of obituaries were reviewed. Margaret M. Hollister Wolfe added 1997 and 1998 burials.
